

Denial

The state of denial is how we describe someone who refuses to accept the truth or disregards the facts. Obviously, denial can be self-destructive and socially dysfunctional and there is a lot of it around. There is even be a good business for anyone godless enough to help encourage and spread the illness. Whether it's the MSM nightly news or NGO sponsored events some of the most over paid public figures in the world have sold their souls to help spread a false and destructive message to their audience.

Wisdom will usually come with age, unless you're stuck in a state of denial from years incomplete and ill-informed thinking. Furthermore, some of us tend to fixate at the age when they were feeling the most secure or content, which can be a big problem for the wealthiest and most affluent among us.

It's like a birth defect or a disease that shows up once they are elected to office. First there is a lack of accountability for the failure of unrealistic policies. Followed by an ethical betrayal of the public trust, where an exclusive inter circle peruses their own best interest. Anything that does not comply with the groups plan is inconceivable and they will justify all things with Machiavellian denial.

Flamboyant and charismatic with an obedient organization at their disposal, these are the globalist, democratic socialist. So why does anyone put up with the lack of responsibility and disastrous results that are consistent with the left. Why would anyone give up their freedom and prosperity for some anti-constitutional return to world tyranny? After all, these monsters need to be elected or supported, at least until they have confiscated all the weapons, seized complete control of the voting booths and shut down the free press, (like they have currently done in Europe & Canada).

How scary and sad it is for anyone who believes the fake news narrative, but there is a silver lining from all the political exposure; we have never been so close to "government accountability". For the first time, we have the resources we need to start holding our government accountable, as intended.

I'm sure Maxine would welcome a citizen's audit of her financial affairs. Al Green would love a public hearing before the ethics review board, and AOC probably can't wait to take an IQ test. Just 532 representatives to go, we can do this! The Pelosi's and Beto may need permission from the cartels but I'm sure their group would be happy to participate. Trump has been a great leader in this since and this is exactly the kind of accountability we should demand from every single member of government!

It can be done; ethical standards are in place for all federal employees. Every one of these vile and hateful congressional members needs to have their own motives scrutinized and justified in an ethical review. Look, we know they all get rich while in office and we know how, but we give them a pass thinking they will do the right thing for the county. Those days are over, we absolutely need a citizen's data base for at least the members of the house. Voting records, bills supported, affiliations, financial dealings, and public disclosure. A simple data base with 535 records for all the "public" officials who have given up their right to privacy, to hold public office.

This is all that is missing and why government is in denial.

P.S. Term limits would be of great help in breaking up the business criminal cabals, rotting the system. (Like that will ever happen 😞) ...
