

Guilty

"A Grand Jury can indict a ham sandwich", they are being funny, I say a grand jury is what the government uses to destroy or convict the innocent. Think about it, why not just use a federal indictment and trial by jury? I don't know the answer to that, but I can tell you, from someone who has been threatened with a DOJ Grand Jury, that there is little or no hope for the accused in such a case.

Does anyone remember the reality based movie "Tucker the man and his dream" with Jeff Bridges, because that's a pretty good look at a Grand Jury? My case was a lot more mundane, but it had the same basic outline. An entitled bunch of insiders with unlimited resources and legal rights, gang up on a single entity to send a message, far and wide, that we shall not be challenged.

For those of you who have never experience such a powerful accusation, I can say that you go through some serious mind games and soul searching. You and everyone you have ever known will halfway believe that, maybe you did it? I was lucky because I've been working with the feds for 30 years and have read large stacks of federal court cases put before the International Court of Trade. To make a long story short I wrote them a letter stating my position, and pleaded guilty to a charge that we were in no way guilty of. I did not have to sell my house, take my kids out of college, go into debt, lose my federal licenses or continue with one more second of that crap, than was necessary.

At least I'm in good company, there has been a stunning misuse of federal power over the last 10 years. Heck, what about the denial of top law enforcement to apply the "Knew or should have Known" standard so well imbedded the federal justice system, (since that's the one that got me). As one who has been a part of that system for so long it comes as a shock that our government, at its highest level, could also be pursued by such a collection of babbling idiot's that was left over from this previous administration.

Just so you know, Federal Judges in the real world are the bad asses. Since I have read so many of their court cases I can tell you that the lawyers will often be spending the client's money for no reason. There is usually no matter of law to consider, only the regulatory guidelines and you are either right or wrong in most cases. God only knows what has happened to that system after eight years of pure, unembellished corruption. These "liberally openminded" judges and bureaucrats installed by this far left-wing mob, have no place within the US judicial system. I think it must be Chicago heroine that's causing all the problems. Have you ever been prescribed an opioid based pain killer? Well if you ever do, stay away from your check book because reality is like a prism when you are under their influence.

For those of you who do not understand what a leftist is, please let me explain. A leftist is anyone predisposed with a lack of empathy or appreciation of personal rights and collective freedoms. They are eager to follow their leader, any way they see fit, because the ends will justify the means. It is not about the rule of law or a free and open society, but rather a "safe space" for anyone who is willing recite their "Little Red Book". There are however two very different kinds of leftist, one understands the hyperarchy and the other does not, you can just say rich or poor. The rich are the carpetbaggers who are gamming the system and getting rich in the process. The poor is basically their army of broken or dysfunctional people without enough spirit or education to vote any different.

The question remains, are grand juries necessary, or an instrument for entitled insiders to retain power, aside from the law. Legal historians should consider the question because these are probably the most interesting times in political history. I would love to see a factual book on all the US law that was, lost, disregarded, overridden, abused, intentionally misinterpreted or broken in the last years 10 years, and what on earth they were thinking. Why wait for our descendants to laugh at how stupid and corrupt we were when we have all the information fresh in our heads?
