

Humility

Human awareness, appreciation, understanding, and gratitude are summed up in the word, humility. When our “humanity” is taken away, life revolved around an individual’s understanding, and we may never know how limited that knowledge is. Blind stupidity and a lack of humility seems to be an epidemic in government, and the Schwab crowd. We hear them talk like idiots, without a hint of awareness of what they are saying, appreciation of who they are speaking to, understanding of the consequences, or gratitude for the gifts they were given, and this is all the proof I need.

Seems that there is a consistent stream of human replicas processing every conceivable falsehood without the slightest regard for anyone’s awareness. Like a cringe episode of Fear Factor, they compete for every part they can get, (only that’s probably not fair to FF). No, the world has not gone mad, only the “crazy money stupid train” that has rolled out from under the carpet. Could be that Black Rock controls the woke corporations, Schwab grumes the politicians, Soros manages the dumb, Juncker provides new Nazi atrocities, Epstein took care of enforcement, and do the Rothchild’s really have that much money or is this co-dependent organize crime?

Unaware that the crazy train has left the station hopeless imbeciles line up, not knowing that the good seats are reserved by WWII royalty and the price of steerage is to first be stripped of their humanity. Meaning that from now on there is no right or wrong, only what you are told to think and do. Don’t believe me, look at the Calgary cops after trucker’s convoy or Trudeau’s entire cabinet for that matter. Look at the Biden administration, Australia, New Zealand, ect... I guess they were all told to make the European Union look good because the EU used to be number one, until the crazy train rolled into town.

Like war lords before the communist gave them a political party to hide behind, todays criminals mask themselves with the blind profit of the day. These criminals combine unlimited resources with stupidity to promote some the worst ideas since medieval torture chambers. All that is fine with the war lords since they know exactly how insignificant the current profits are, as long as they are able for funnel more public resources under their control, anything but good accountable government will do. A world without competition, risk or consequences and no understanding of ever being wrong since the power and money has always made it right? A top-down system that extend all the way to school boards, police departments and city halls, where members are strongly advised of what to do and say.

You must appreciate history to see how transparent this has become. The vast majority of regular people all over the world have got it or are getting it fast. The stupid money is trying to buy their way out it again, but now it’s our tax dollars and that really pisses us off. Getting these criminals out of our governments needs to be the highest priority in every adult’s life because we cannot turn our next generation over to this drunken mob.

We see how they work and there is nothing to be proud of.
